Baseball Confusion
Baseball achieved what seemed to be a decisive victory in the United States Supreme Court in 1922, but the famed decision may have been the start of the ultimate death of the so-called "National game." The court declared baseball was a "sport" and not a "business" in the legal sense, and therefore was exempt from the normal provisions of the Sherman Anti-trust act.

Since that time baseball leagues and officials of baseball clubs have acted under the decision and flaunted every reasonable regulation possible. They established farm systems which gobbled up and held in unbreakable contracts the talent of the nation. They dominated the small clubs and extended broadcast right until the minor league disappeared.

Now a shadow has fallen across the highly valuable privilege of immunity from anti-trust provisions. In the now famed Milwaukee-Atlanta decision the league and the Braves are held in violation of the Wisconsin anti-trust law. This is an opening wedge which may ultimately lead to the U. S. Supreme Court restudy of its former statement. And, as all of us know, the august "nine old men" have been revising former decisions quite regularly lately.

Furthermore, Congress itself has been eyeing the abuses by organized baseball; and if the high court doesn't reverse its former decision, there is some trend in Congress to at least conduct an investigation. Such an investigation might lead to legislation which would revise the rules under which the clubs and leagues can act. About the best description of the current situation is "confusion." — Wichita Falls (Tex.) Record News

A Countdown Light
One night about eight years ago an oil company safety engineer was driving home from work in Abilene, Texas. Three times he was caught in the middle of an intersection when the traffic light changed. He immediately began trying to find an improved signal. A few months ago the man's device went to work at a dangerous intersection in Abilene.

Twelve seconds before a light change the figure 9 appears on the amber globe. It is followed at one-second intervals by the numbers down through 1. Then there are three seconds left for the amber light. It has resulted in a sharp cut in accidents at that one crossing and the city fathers have ordered $6,000 worth to use elsewhere. It would seem the gentleman has something worth the while and, as he sets out to sell the countdown gadget, he does hope so. — Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

In Washington, the FBI reported that a single shot from a rifle struck agent Terry Ray Anderson, 42, as he participated in the search. He died within a few minutes.

Pelicans Take Over A Local Stock Pond

A call from Dudley Davis, Old Highway 67 West this morning told about some strange birds on his pond. He thought they might be the rare whooping cranes, but on investigation by Pod Rogers and Billy

Dan Jones revealed there were about 22 pelicans. They were very shy and are fairly good sized birds, solid white, black wing tips and a large pouch under their bills used to store fish scooped out of the water.

Buddhists in Showdown Threat to Ky

By ANDREW BOROWEC
SAIGON (P) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government alerted troops of its elite 7th Infantry Division today in case of Buddhists rioting in Saigon. Two battalions—about 1,000 men—were reported moving in from the south.

The Buddhist hierarchy hurled charges of treason and murder against the regime. Monks in Saigon's main pagoda said they planned to start a 48-hour hunger strike Thursday. In the northern provinces, others said they would give their lives if necessary to force the government to end its crackdown on that part of the country.

As the junta faced the political peril of a new round of fiery suicides by monks, dissident troops of the army's 1st Corps also kept up their resistance to the government.

A soldier in Hue fired two pistol shots at a U.S. helicopter carrying the new Vietnamese commander of the 1st Corps, Maj. Gen. Huynh Van Cao, and the U.S. Marine chief of staff in Viet Nam, Brig. Gen. Jonas M. Platt, on a mission to win over dissident officers of the Vietnamese 1st Army Division.

No one aboard the helicopter was hurt, but a gunman returned the fire and killed the soldier. Earlier erroneous reports said Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, the U.S. Marine commander in Viet Nam, was aboard the helicopter.

GOPs Hope to Kill Bill on Financing

By EDMOND LEBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican opponents of President Johnson's controversial $4.2 billion financing program hope to deal it a parliamentary sudden death today.

They have drafted at least five technical points of order to knock out vital sections of the bill that would permit the administration to shift government loans to private investors.

The financing program could make the difference between a $1.8-billion budget deficit next year and one $6 billion in the red.

Republicans refused to reveal details of their strategy, but it was understood to be related to their connection that measure is a disguised appropriation bill that would remove substantial spending items from the regular budget and mix fiscal and legislative matters in violation of House rules.

If the bill survives these parliamentary assaults, it is expected to come to a final vote today.

Romania Ignored the Anniversary

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Communist Romania did not join other Soviet-bloc East European nations Sunday in observing the 11th anniversary of the Warsaw Pact alliance.

The official silence in Romania's press was seen as evidence of a continued strain in Romania's n-Soviet relations, heightened by reports of Romanian resistance to a Soviet plan for integrating member armies of the Warsaw Pact. The pact is the East European counterpart to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Fierce Battle Raging on Viet Nam Coast

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. air cavalrymen hurled heavy reinforcements against a force of 350 or more North Vietnamese regulars in the central highlands today and reported the Communists were on the run.

Helicopters airlifted three battalions of cavalry reinforcements to the battle scene 15 miles west of An Khe and 250 miles northeast of Saigon.

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Outnumbered U.S. air cavalrymen threw reinforcements today into a fierce battle with North Vietnamese regulars near the central coast of Viet Nam.

The cavalrymen killed 28 of the strongly entrenched Communist force during the opening six-hour fight Monday and took moderate casualties themselves, the U.S. command reported.

A spokesman said the engagement was continuing today 35 miles northwest of coastal Qui Nhon and 275 miles northeast of Saigon.

It was the only reported ground action of any size in the Viet Nam war, and continuing monsoon rains once again cut sharply into the American air offensive over North Viet Nam.

On the political front, Buddhist leaders threatened a showdown with Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime and vowed to give their lives if necessary to force the government to end its campaign against antigovernment Buddhists and troops in the northern provinces.

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Dr. H. D. Luck of Arkadelphia said Monday he would decide in a few days whether to resign as chairman of the Democrats for Arkansas organization.

He gave no reason for considering resignation. The organization was formed last summer and members said they were concerned about a hold on the state party by conservatives and special interests.

Pattern in Viet Nam Is Repeating

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
How accurate have U.S. leaders been in assessing developments and prospects in embattled, tumultuous South Viet Nam?

A recapitulation of some of their less lucky statements about a frustrating war in a frustrating country suggests that a pattern has been repeating itself over and over with deadly regularity.

Events mock the assessments, the predictions and the sometimes guarded optimism of harassed U.S. administration leaders.

Absence of an ambassador from his post in Saigon can be almost a signal for some new and shocking development. A U.S. strategy conference in Honolulu can be transformed into an omen of Saigon turmoil to come.

Time after time Washington expresses surprise at a sudden stormy development in Saigon's politics. Now, once again, Washington is surprised as it looks at a new crisis, this one evoking echoes of the 1963 turmoil which brought down the regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Only a week ago, Secretary of State Dean Rusk remarked to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that "some interpretations may have been overdrawn" in the reporting of a statement by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

Ky, discussing prospective South Viet Nam elections, said it would take at least a year to prepare orderly transition to civilian rule and he expected to remain in power that long. Rusk said Ky was "not going to try to" and in the way of the constitutional and electoral process.

Gubernatorial candidate Raymond Rebsamen says Hot Springs needs help, not jumping on, because of its problems with gambling.

Would Let Spa Do What People Want

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Raymond Rebsamen indicated Monday he would have a laissez faire—let people do what they will—attitude toward gambling in Garland County if he is elected governor.

"You and I have permitted gambling to go on in Hot Springs for 100 years," he said, "and that community is entitled to thrive and grow just like the rest of the state."

Hot Springs needs help, not to be jumped on, he said.

"Those people have cleaned up that town in a lot of ways," he told the Pulaski County Business Men's Association. "I'd like to congratulate them on their new convention center."

Rebsamen said the resort city's problems could not be treated as lightly as attributed to former governor Jeff Davis. It is told that when Davis was elected a worried spa resident asked what his attitude toward the city was, he said.

262 Missing on Ship in the Philippines

MANILA (AP) — The fate of 262 persons aboard a Philippine interisland steamer remained a mystery today after a rescue vessel failed to find her.

The 740-ton Pioneer Cebu was reported driven aground by Typhoon Irma on Malapascua or Teplon Islands but her sister ship, the Pioneer Tacloban found no trace of her there.

The Pioneer Tacloban also reported that a ship spotted by a U.S. Air Force plane off Teplon was a coastal steamer stranded and abandoned several months ago. She was at first believed to be the Pioneer Cebu.

Both the Pioneer Cebu and the Pioneer Tacloban are owned by Filipinas Pioneer Lines. The firm said earlier it had a report from a businessman that the Pioneer Cebu was intact and her passengers apparently safe after she was pounded against a reef.

This satellite, called an alternate target docking adaptor (ATDA) is not as sophisticated as the Agena. It has no propulsion system. It was built after the Gemini 6 failure for just such an emergency.

Today the Atlas rocket had lifted off 15 minutes late because of a fueling problem with the Agena. Pressure apparently dropped in a nitric acid line and the crew was unable to load as quickly as planned.

The Atlas launch appeared to be normal as the silvery projectile darted out over the Atlantic Ocean.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The launching of the Gemini 9 astronauts on a rendezvous and space-walk mission was postponed today for at least two weeks when their Agena target satellite failed to achieve orbit.

An Atlas rocket blazed away from Cape Kennedy at 11:15 a.m. (EDT) to propel the Agena into space. But eight minutes later, mission director William C. Schneider reported:

"We have lost the Agena bird. We don't know exactly what happened to it. The Gemini will not fly today."

He then scrubbed the launch of Gemini 9 pilots Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan, who were to have spent three days in space practicing maneuvers essential to Apollo man-to-the-moon trips.

For Stafford, it was the second similar disappointment. He and Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. were in the Gemini 6 spacecraft last Oct. 25 and had their mission postponed when their Agena target satellite exploded six minutes after liftoff.

There was no immediate reaction from the astronauts on the scrubbing of their space flight — one of the most daring and difficult ever attempted.

During their three days in space, they were to have practiced several rendezvous and docking techniques with the Agena, attempted space rescue missions, fired the Agena engines to change orbits, and Cernan was to have made a record 2-hour, 25-minute space walk.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Monday that if the Agena failed to achieve orbit, Stafford and Cernan would have to wait at least two weeks until an alternate satellite could be placed on the launch pad.

Death Blamed on Hemlock Poison

Russell Group Votes to Take Hand in CIA

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved 14 to 5 today a resolution to give it a role in supervising operations of the Central Intelligence Agency.

The committee, however, amended the proposal in an attempt to ease its path in the face of strong obstacles in the Senate.

But that will be only the beginning of a long, hard road for the resolution which has been denounced by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services subcommittee responsible for overseeing the activities of the intelligence organization.

Under the usual procedure, the resolution next must go to the Senate Rules Committee. There a majority may bottle it up.

If it ever reaches the Senate, it will collide immediately with Russell, who captains the Senate's inner circle.

Russell, also head of the Armed Services Committee, has put his prestige on the line against the resolution which is supported by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Russell told the Senate Monday "There is no justification whatever for any committee to muscle in on the jurisdiction of the Armed Services Committee so far as the CIA is concerned."

"At stake in the current controversy is the issue of whether the CIA has overstepped the bounds of its intelligence-gathering mission to influence foreign policy."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., sponsor of the resolution, says it has, Russell called that contention "sheer poppycock."

"There is simply not a scintilla of truth in such a charge," Russell said, "and not a single concrete case can be provided where it has done so."

The CIA, which Russell says has to stand mute when it is assailed because of the peculiar nature of its assignment, does not want any additional senators soaking up its secrets.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, touched on that point when he told the Senate Monday the watchdog group was distinguished by its infrequency of leaks while the Foreign Relations Committee has become a sieve of information.

Russell said public criticism of the CIA's operations and news leaks might cause the agency's informants around the world to "close up like clams or worse than that, to lose their lives."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., noted that CIA supervision has to be handled quietly. He said he carefully tears up even the notes he makes to ask questions at watchdog committee meetings.

ALC Looks to Sturgis for Pay Report

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Legislative Joint Auditing Committee expects to hear from former Highway Director Mack Sturgis one way or another when it meets May 27 to look into illegal pay raises in the Highway Department.

Either a statement or a personal appearance by Sturgis will be accepted, said Pulaski County Rep. Sterling Cockrill Jr., chairman of the committee, Monday.

Cockrill said Monday everyone invited to testify at the hearing except Sturgis has confirmed that they will attend.

"I feel sure that he will send a statement if he does not attend," Cockrill said. "If he does, we will accept it and read it and if we have any questions we probably would ask him for answers."

Sturgis figures in the controversy as the man who approved $2.1 million in salary raises for Highway Department personnel before he resigned in March.

The raises were put into effect without publicity. They were revealed after a disgruntled department employee wrote a letter to newsmen.

The raises have since been declared illegal, rescinded and the money refunded.

The state Highway Commission began an investigation of the raises and fired two employees, one of them assistant Highway Director Y. W. Wheeler.

The commission said it had no knowledge of the raises.

The legislative committee has invited Sturgis, members of the Highway Commission, state Budget Director Frank Storney, Comptroller L. A. Mashburn, the two fired Highway Department employees and the current Comptroller L. A. Mashburn, the two fired Highway Department employees and the current highway director, Walter E. Hicks, to appear at the hearing.

AF Short of Funds Due to V. Nam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force says it will be unable to meet any emergencies outside Viet Nam under its proposed budget for fiscal 1967.

And the Army says it may not have enough funds to carry out its operations the rest of this fiscal year.

Both services aired their money complaints to House subcommittees two months ago. Their testimony was released separately today.

Major Gen. Durward L. Crow, comptroller of the Air Force, told the House Defense Appropriations subcommittee March 16 that budget cuts imposed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and the Bureau of the Budget will permit 100 per cent performance in Viet Nam, but not much elsewhere.

Bosch Does Not Plan Campaign

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Presidential candidate Juan Bosch says he will not leave his home to campaign but added that this won't hurt his chances in the Dominican Republic's June 1 elections.

Bosch, head of the Dominican Revolutionary party — PRD — and the leading contender for the presidency, has remained a virtual prisoner in his heavily guarded home because of fears for his life.

Bosch was elected president in December 1962, in the country's first free elections in more than a generation, but he was ousted by a military coup the following year. Efforts to reinstate him led to the April 1965 revolt.

Grim Battle in Congress Over Budget

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration opens today what could be one of the grimmest fights of the Congress — to enact a $4.2-billion financing program that could make the difference between a nearly balanced budget next year and one $6 billion in the red.

The bill comes before the House today with a vote expected Tuesday. It would facilitate the sale of participation shares in pools of loans held by the government. Thus the government could convert such assets into cash for use by its agencies, avoiding the need for appropriations.

The measure has encountered wide opposition. Republicans have called it a budget gimmick to conceal the amount of government spending. Other opponents — including the Farmers Union and the Americans for Democratic Action — say it would cost the taxpayers more in interest than straight Treasury borrowing.

As soon as the financing measure is disposed of, the House is scheduled to start debating another highly controversial piece of legislation to increase minimum wages.

The measure would increase the minimum wage from the present $1.25 an hour to $1.40 next Feb. 1 and $1.60 an hour a year later.

The measure also would extend coverage of the act to 7.2 million additional workers. A major fight is expected on proposed inclusion of farm workers.

The bill's sponsors say they have enough votes for House passage. The Johnson administration has called for improvements in the minimum wage without spelling out details.

The Senate, with a relatively quiet week in view, is expected to take up a $5-billion National Aeronautics and Space Administration authorization bill.

Its Foreign Relations Committee may begin voting on details of a $3.4-billion foreign aid bill which has provided a platform for debate on foreign policy in general. It also is scheduled to consider further proposals for tighter congressional supervision of the Central Intelligence Agency and other intelligence agencies.

U.S. Support of Military Is Pledged

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnson administration leaders, after two days of intensive consultations on the Viet Nam crisis, have agreed to support a strong Vietnamese military role in any future Saigon government.

But, high officials made clear Monday, this decision does not indicate a personal endorsement of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

The sharp foreign policy debate touched off by Ky's week-end move against Buddhists in Da Nang gets added momentum today from Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Rusk scheduled a late afternoon news conference — his first in seven weeks — and Fulbright appears before a lunch-hour meeting of the National Press Club.

By SPENCER DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Johnson administration leaders, after two days of intensive consultations on the Viet Nam crisis, have agreed to support a strong Vietnamese military role in any future Saigon government.

But, high officials made clear Monday, this decision does not indicate a personal endorsement of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

The sharp foreign policy debate touched off by Ky's week-end move against Buddhists in Da Nang gets added momentum today from Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Rusk scheduled a late afternoon news conference — his first in seven weeks — and Fulbright appears before a lunch-hour meeting of the National Press Club.

Fulbright said Monday his committee may open a new round of hearings on Viet Nam.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, his round of talks over, departs for his Saigon post. He will stop en route to confer in Seoul with South Korean President Chung Hee Park.

A high official explained the administration's decision to support a military regime in Saigon this way:

"It is necessary to build a nation and fight a war at the same time. The current appraisal here is that the political disturbances in South Viet Nam will fall short of a civil war, but may involve bloodshed."

Evolution — but not stability — will be predominant in the weeks and months ahead. The army is the only nation-building influence in a country still divided among conflicting groups and without any political parties with a power base.

The United States recognizes Ky as the head of the established government of South Viet Nam but this does not mean he would be given U.S. support over someone else in an election.

There is still considerable anger in Washington as the result of Ky's surprise weekend move. It is felt here that Ky decided he couldn't tolerate a situation where the Saigon government had no control over one of its most important military and political areas. But the wisdom of taking the action he did in seizing the town without U.S. consultation is questioned.

Many experts here contend that Ky's action will do more harm than good by stimulating the Buddhists to all-out opposition. Others say that it will give Ky an opportunity to re-establish law and order before elections are held for a constitution-making body.

After that election, it is still unclear when a civilian government may be formed, officials say.

Arkla Village Featured in Travel Book

Tourist highlights in and about Hope are featured on page 12 of the Southwest and South Central Area volume in the new 1966 Mobil Travel Guide, which will be published May 2.

More than a million purchasers of the Guide this year will find the seven-volume series bright with color and offering numerous detailed maps as well as an expanded guest certificate program.

Local attractions recommended includes "Arkla Village, 8 mi. NE on U.S. 67 in Emmet. Reproduction of frontier town of the mid-1800's. General store, blacksmith shop, corral, steamboat and buggy rides; museum. The Carriage Works turns out full-scale reproductions. Picnicking; cafe."

Information provided travelers about Hope includes local history, points of cultural interest, hunting, fishing and other sports facilities. Industrial tours, auto and walking tours and state and national parks. Founding date, altitude and population also are given.

As is customary with the Mobil Travel Guide, each of the more than 21,000 hotels, motels, restaurants, resorts and cafeterias listed has been evaluated through personal inspection. Impartial investigators rate establishments with a star system — one for "good, better than average," through five for "one of the best in the country."

Travelers on a budget find a check mark after places to stay or dine which denotes "unusually good value" and "relatively inexpensive."

Maps added to the newest Guide shows cities and towns, United States interstate highways and mileage between various points in the country. 4,088 American cities and towns in all states except Alaska and Hawaii are detailed and 7,800 suggestions of places to see and things to do are noted.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help US! this newspaper.

The Drinks are On the Parents — So Is The Blame

Dear Helen: What do you think of parents who put on drinking parties for their teenagers and getting them so drunk that they can't even drive home by themselves?

These were 15 and 16 year old kids. When my folks complained (they had to come after me because my boy friend had too much) these people said, "It's better to let them have beer at home than sneak it out in the woods somewhere."

I don't drink, but it's getting harder and harder to go places where others don't drink, too. Especially when the parents cave in. — Minority of One

Dear One: What do I think of parents who put on drinking sessions for 15 and 16-year-olds? They are breaking the law and should be prosecuted.

Granted teens will experiment with liquor, but the majority do not "go out in the woods and get drunk." Adults who use that excuse for "soused sixteen" parties are trying to buy popularity for their children. The price is too high for the "popularity" is the snickering kind that say, "If you want booze, get in with — he old man is a push over."

Your best bet, "M. of O", is to stop thinking of yourself as the lone hold-out. Make it plain you won't date a boy who drinks on a date, and you'll be surprised how many respect you for your stand. — H.

Dear Helen: A girl who lives a couple of houses from me has started this lie about my future husband and me. She has whispered it around that I had one abortion, and now I am expecting another baby. We have only been engaged four months, and haven't even set the date for our wedding.

You see, she got in trouble, and I guess she wants to whitewash herself by making others seem like her. I have never been unkind to her. Why do people try to hurt other people this way? — M.D.

Dear M: When an animal is hurt, he bites whatever is nearest him. Humans sometimes react the same way. Your friends won't believe the girl's story; your enemies would believe it anyway; and most people couldn't care less, especially since this kind of unfounded rumor is quite prevalent today.

Pity her, and let others (including her) know you "understand." Sympathy neutralizes gossip: it either quiets a wagging tongue or turns people deaf to it. — H.

Dear Helen: Since February I have been getting letters from a boy. Maybe I know him, and maybe he's a complete stranger. He doesn't tell me his name, but he tells me what he likes, what he thinks, how he feels, and asks me to take his letters seriously. They're interesting. I know he's for real.

He told me that on graduation night (from the 8th grade) he will come up and ask me to dance with him, and then I'll know who he is. What shall I do? — Undecided

Dear Un: Now THERE'S a boy with romance in his soul. Enjoy your letters and hope for an early graduation. And even if he's the short, quiet kid with the stutter, remember that eighth grade males grow out of the awkward age fast with a little help from an understanding girl. — H.

P.S. Let us know how it turns out, won't you? I'm hooked on happy endings.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star.

Kauai King Must Be Convincing

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — Kauai King has some convincing left to do in Saturday's $150,000-added Preakness at Pimlico.

The tentative line-up lists nine 3-year-olds who will oppose Mike Ford's Kentucky Derby winner and talk in the opposition camps is that they're not here for second, third or fourth money.

For instance, trainer Jim Padgett of Blue Skyer: "He should run a big race and I think we have a good chance to win this one," said the son of the principal owner of the colt.

Like many of the others, Padgett also found an excuse and also encouragement in the Blue Skyer's Derby performance. The gray colt suffered ahead virus shortly before the Derby and Padgett said, "He was behind two weeks in his training."

Padgett hesitated about entering the 1-mile Derby, but when he did Blue Skyer put on a rallying finish for third place, beaten only half a length and a nose. "He was a tired horse at the end of the Derby," Padgett said.

Another example of the prove-it-to-me-again school is trainer Joe Considine of Eyreodine. About a month ago, Eyreodine was 24 lengths behind Kauai King in the Prince Georges Stake at Bowie.

Prefacing his remarks by saying he didn't want to alibi, Considine said it was the first time Eyreodine raced in mud and he showed he didn't cotton to it and secondly it was the first race in two months for the colt.

"He should be at his best for the Preakness," declared Considine, unless it rains and then he'll scratch Eyreodine.

Trainer Lucien Lauren is another who has hinted he feels Amberoid did not have a chance to show his best in the Derby. The colt, owned by Reginald N. Webster, stumbled at the start and never did catch up, finishing seventh.

Judge Grants Braves Stay of His Order

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller today stayed his order directing the National League to return the Braves from Atlanta to Milwaukee by Wednesday, and ordered baseball to post a $100,000 security bond pending an appeal to the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Baseball's legal donnybrook with Wisconsin is heading for a Wisconsin Supreme Court playoff with the Braves still nestled in their new Atlanta home and the National League still the same 10-team outfit.

A final flurry of court room activity was scheduled for Milwaukee today before baseball attorneys formally file an appeal with the Supreme Court at Madison, the state capital.

But a Circuit Court attempt to prod baseball into granting Milwaukee a 1967 expansion franchise failed to work as the deadline for action slipped by Monday.

Baseball still is under orders to return the Braves to Milwaukee Wednesday, but that directive may be suspended sometime today.

Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller, who ordered expansion or the return of the Braves, said he expected to rule today on whether the edict should be stayed pending the outcome of the Supreme Court appeal.

Roller also was asked to rule today on a defense motion requesting a new trial of Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the game.

Baseball attorneys expect Roller to reject the motion, which also asks him to drop his order directing the return of the Braves.

The motion was filed for the sake of the record that the Supreme Court will review in considering Roller's handling of the case.

Roller's order came after he found baseball in violation of Wisconsin antitrust law for stripping Milwaukee of its only major league team.

Baseball said it had no intention of embarking on a court-ordered expansion course and said the return of the Braves Milwaukee was impossible.

Wisconsin replied with a threat to slap baseball with contempt of court citations.

Real tapestry can be woven only by hand.

Outstanding Pro Blocker
MENASHA, Wis. (AP) — Forrest Gregg, a stalwart of the offensive line on the Green Bay Packers' awesome championship teams of the 1960s, was designated today as winner of the National Football League's 1965 Outstanding Blocker Award.

The durable 250-pound Texan, nine-year NFL veteran and All-League tackle who also played guard, was an overwhelming choice in a pool of 47 newspaper, radio and television writers and broadcasters representing the 14 league cities.

The award, originated by the National 1000 Hard Club Foundation, Inc., will be presented at the organization's third annual dinner in Menasha June 7.

Pascual Wins for Twins in Only Major Tilt

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Camilo Pascual, once baseball's Mr. Curve, is back on the beam, and Minnesota Manager Sam Mele thinks his Cuban ace of past years can lead the Twins to a second straight American League pennant.

Pascual, the forgotten man of Minnesota's 1965 pennant season when arm trouble and surgery shelved him over two months, has that big, sweeping curve and his control back this year.

He scattered seven hits Monday to pitch the Twins to a 2-1 victory over Washington, and become the first American League pitcher to win six games. He has lost once.

With 1965 ace Jim (Mudcat) Grant off to a mediocre 2-3 start and the club's top left-hander, Jim Kaat, showing only a 3-3 record, the Twins can thank Pascual for nearly half their 13 victories.

"I see no reason why Camilo shouldn't win 20 games this year, the way he's been throwing," said Mele. "He definitely looks like the Camilo of old."

"His curve may not be quite as overpowering as it once was, and he may not strike out as many as he used to, but he's winning again for us and that's the big thing."

Pascual, who won 20 games in 1962 and 21 in 1963, isn't striking out as many batters as he did a few years ago, but he isn't walking as many, either. In 50 innings, he's struck out 27, walked only 11 and has a 2.52 earned run average.

Monday, he struck out three and didn't walk a man for the third time this season.

From 1961 through 1964, Pascual struck out over 200 batters every year, averaging 211. He also walked an average of 85 men over that four-year span.

Pascual bested Phil Ortega in a mound duel Monday. Ortega allowed only eight spaced hits, but got into trouble in the ninth when the Twins loaded the bases on singles by Harmon Killebrew and Bernie Allen, plus an intentional walk to pinch-hitter Don Mincher.

Then Senator rookie reliever Casey Cox, who replaced Ortega after Allen's hit, walked the Twins' Cesar Tovar on four straight pitches to force home the winning run.

Tovar drove in Minnesota's first run with a sacrifice fly following Zoilo Versalles' triple in the third inning. Washington tied it in the fourth on Jim King's first home run of the season.

The Twins' victory over the Senators was the only major league game scheduled Monday. A full slate of 10 games was scheduled for today and tonight.

Clay Thinks He'll Knock Out Cooper

LONDON (AP) — World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay claims he will knock out Henry Cooper in their May 21 title fight at London's Arsenal Soccer Stadium.

"I will knock Cooper cold with a good, clean punch," he told newsmen Monday.

Clay stopped Cooper with cut eyes in the fifth round of their previous London fight in 1963.

Asked if he planned to cut up Cooper again, Clay retorted: "I do not deliberately cut people. Cooper is too nice a man for me even to think of such a thing."

Figuring the Major Leagues

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Figuring the Majors:
There's a good reason why the Cleveland Indians are leading the American League. Of the 24 games they've played, the Indians have been involved in 13 one-run games and won 10 of them.

Boog Powell, Baltimore's big first baseman, has gone hitless in his last 17 times at bat and his average has dwindled 52 points to .202. His last hit was a home run in the second game of a doubleheader against Cleveland May 8.

The weekend series against Boston which drew 81,699 in new Anaheim Stadium lifted the California Angels into the major league lead in home attendance with 386,810. The Los Angeles Dodgers are next with 358,947, followed by the New York Mets with 342,956 and the Houston Astros, 299,035.

Although this will be a month Willie Mays is likely to remember because he broke the National League career home run record, the San Francisco Star is batting only .245 in May. He's had 13 hits in 53 times at bat.

Joe Morgan of Houston, the National League's leading batter with a .360 average, must enjoy hitting the Astrodome. He's batting .426 in 16 games there. His average for 14 road games is only .280.

National Pro Loop Silent on Expansion

By JAC HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The 16th team in the National Football League still is Team X and will not be named until some time before the college draft.

Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner, insisted today that the owners had made no decision on the expansion club and would not make any at the spring meetings that opened Monday.

"We have no deadline," he said but admitted it should be before the draft.

"We are having representatives of the seven cities in here Wednesday," said Rozelle. "They will bring us up to date on stadium plans and make their presentations. We are very proud of the caliber of people who are coming, including governors and mayors."

Houston; New Orleans, La.; Seattle, Wash.; Cincinnati; Boston; Portland, Ore.; and Phoenix, Ariz., are due to make their best sales pitch to the owners. Each will have 15 minutes to tell his story.

Rozelle expects Team X to be ready to field a ball club for the 1967 season. The league will be divided into an Eastern Conference and Western Conference with each conference split into two four-club divisions. That will set up playoffs for each conference title before the league championship game.

The NFL studied means of winning the all-out talent war with the AFL, expected to flare up next fall. A central scouting system with pooled information on college athletes was discussed.

The league decided to extend the goal posts 20 feet above the cross bar to help officials in making calls on field goals. The league denied there was any connection between the innovation and the disputed field goal by Don Chandler of Green Bay in last season's tie playoff game with Baltimore. The Colts claimed the field goal was no good, but the Packers won 13-10 and went on to beat Cleveland for the title.

Porker Coach to Speak Here

Frank Broyles

Frank Broyles, head coach of the Arkansas Razorbacks, will speak at The First Methodist Church on Sunday night, May 22, at 7:30 p.m. Coach Broyles is active in the lay speaker program of the Methodist Church.

He was chairman of the official board of the Central Methodist Church for three years. At the present time, he serves on the Board of Directors of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. This is a nationwide organization which holds its annual summer camp in Estes Park, Colorado. This organization is devoted to instilling Christian character among the young athletes of America. The headman of the Razorbacks is also active in Boy Scout work and the Boys Clubs in Arkansas.

At Arkansas, Coach Broyles has produced five Southwest Conference champions in the last seven years. This record is unexcelled in the history of the Southwest. He is the only coach in the history of the league to produce two undefeated teams in succession.

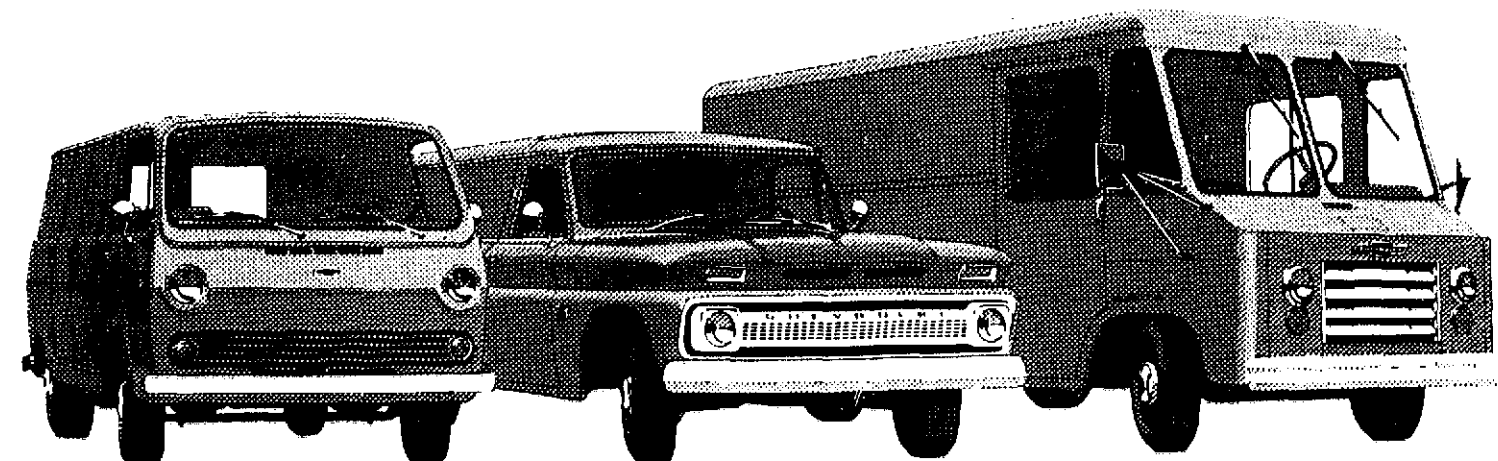

The opportunity to work with young men was one of the compelling reasons why Frank Broyles became a football coach.

The general public is invited to hear him.

THE IDEAL TREE—Touted as the "perfect shade tree," the Bradford ornamental pear tree originally found in China before World War I has been adapted to U.S. climates after long research by the Agriculture Department. To publicize the development, Mrs. Lyndon Johnson plants a tree on the department grounds with Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman, among others, looking on. At right, trees in full blossom line a street in University Park, Md., where over 200 trees have been test planted. The tree produces white blossoms in spring, silvery green leaves in summer and crimson foliage in autumn. The nonedible fruit attracts birds but is so small that it presents no litter problem. The Bradford pear tree is now available to homeowners from nurseries in several states.

KILLING FROST—Frigid weather brought heavy damage to fruit and vegetable crops across much of the northern half of the nation. A Leesville, N.C., farmer, left, hoses down his tomato field to wash off deadly frost. Hundreds of miles to the north, a St. Joseph, Mich., woman gives the same water treatment to her tomato plants.

NORAD CHIEF—Gen. Raymond J. Reeves is the new commander-in-chief of the joint U.S.-Canadian North American Air Defense Command, headquartered at Colorado Springs, Colo. Reeves, 57, formerly was commander of the U.S. Alaskan Command and the Alaskan NORAD region.

QUICK QUIZ

Q—What is sometimes regarded as the most important decision ever ruled on by the U.S. Supreme Court?
A—The Marbury Decision of 1803. The court ruled it had the power to declare invalid any Act of Congress which it found unconstitutional.

Q—Where is the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier of the American Revolution?
A—in the churchyard of the Old Presbyterian Meeting House, Alexandria, Va.

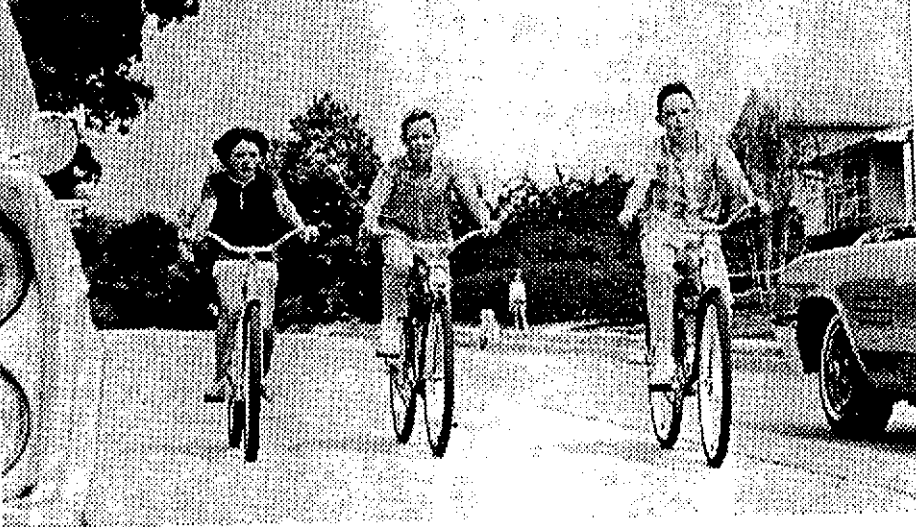

SAIGON AFTERMATH—An American soldier with rifle at the ready stands in a Saigon street littered with abandoned bicycles and spent cartridges after a wild gun battle touched off by a terrorist bombing. Five Vietnamese, including a child, were killed as jittery U.S. and Vietnamese guards fired at each other.

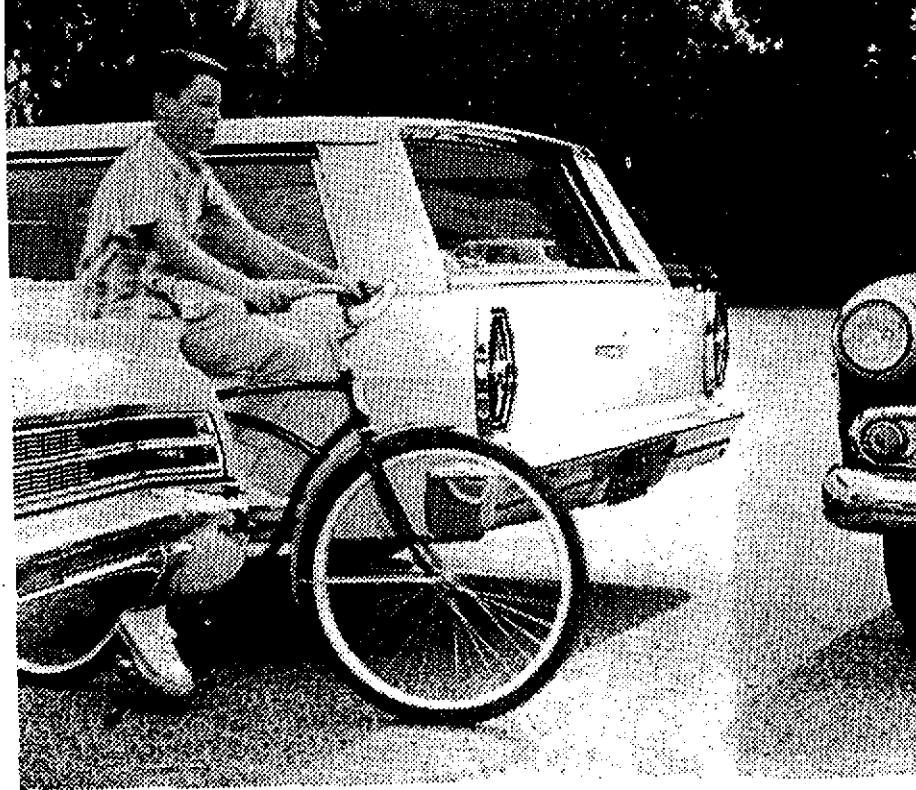

JUST CHECKING—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, wearing a Mohammedan garland given him by an admirer from Pakistan, checks the muscle power of British challenger Henry Cooper in London. Their title bout May 21 will be telecast to the United States.

SAFETY: First, Last and Always

Properly used, a bicycle is a delight. Misused, it can be something else again — a cause for injury and even death. Of more than 30 million children wheeling along streets and highways during vacation months this year, some 30,000 are likely to be injured in accidents — 425 fatally, judging by statistics of past years. Most common accident cause is collision with motor vehicles, a survey by a brake manufacturer, Bendix Corp., shows. The best way to play safe is by observing basic dos and don'ts of sensible cycling.

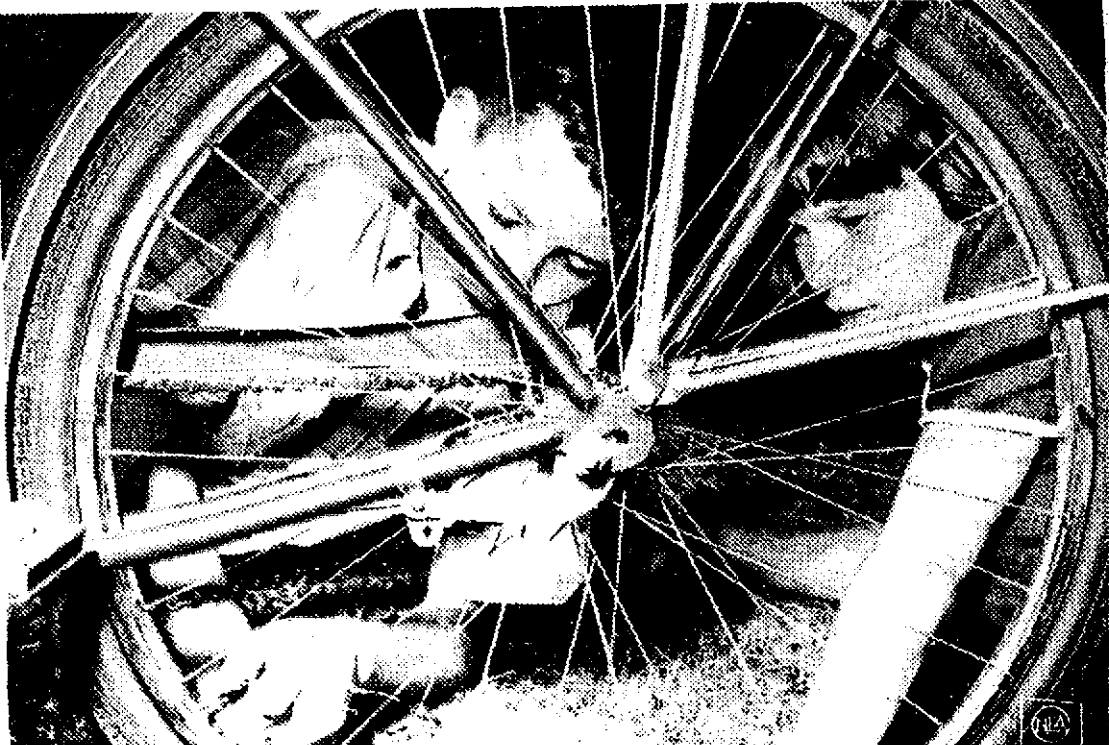

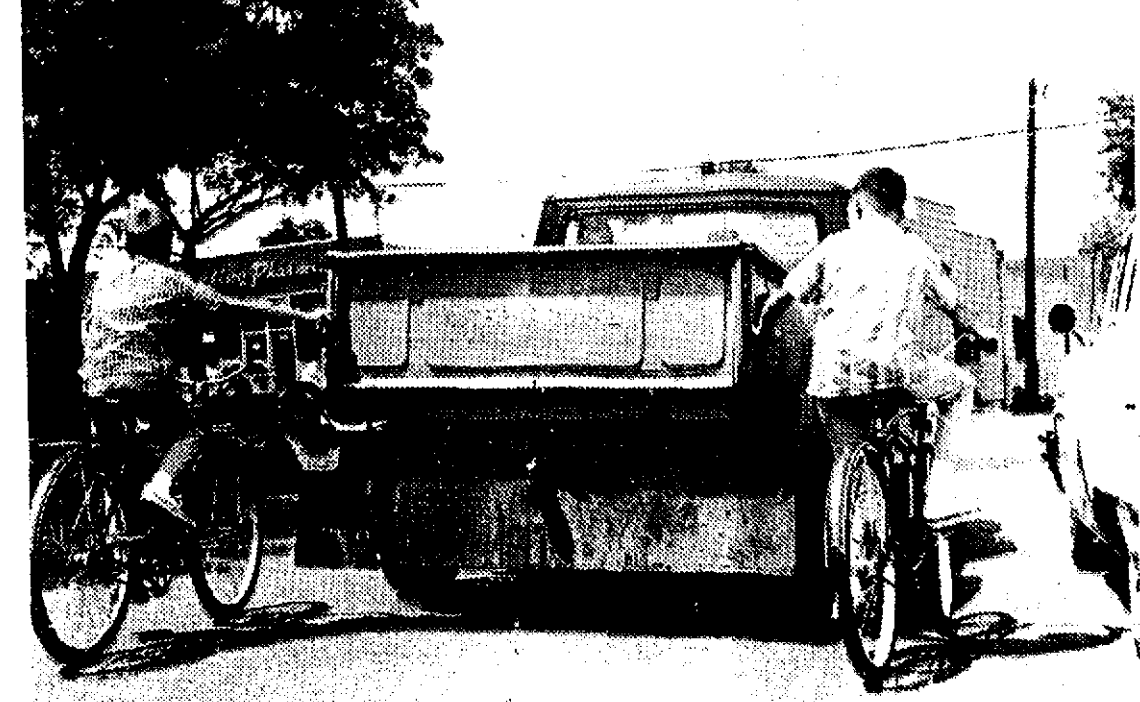

DON'T —ride more than two abreast, Indian-file is best. Road-hogging is unsafe and discourteous.

DO —know and obey traffic regulations, including conventional hand signals to let drivers know your intentions.

—dart without stopping out of driveways and between parked cars, or carry another person. "Piggybacking" makes balance and steering uncertain.

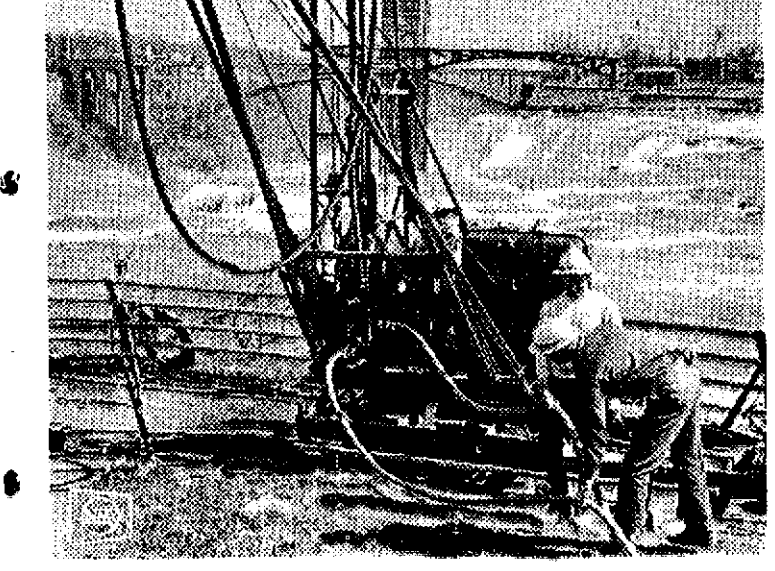

—hitch rides on other vehicles. "Tailgating," one of the most dangerous of all bad bike habits, caused many of the 27,600 accidents last year resulting in serious injury and death.

—check out all a bike's mechanical parts regularly, at least every few weeks and particularly before long trips. Keep it clean and oil moving parts regularly.

SOME SPRING—Icicles on tree branches are a pretty sight, especially in the middle of May. A combination of below-freezing temperatures and sprinklers left on overnight created this glittering sight for three Milwaukee, Wis., children.

FIXING THE FALLS—An Army Engineers' survey crew drills into rock at Luna Island at the southern flank of American Falls as a first step toward eventual rehabilitation of crumbling Niagara Falls. The survey is part of a federal study to determine what measures should be taken to reduce erosion which has deposited huge piles of rock at the base of the American Falls.

Tricks Claimed Much Too Soon

By JACOB & SON

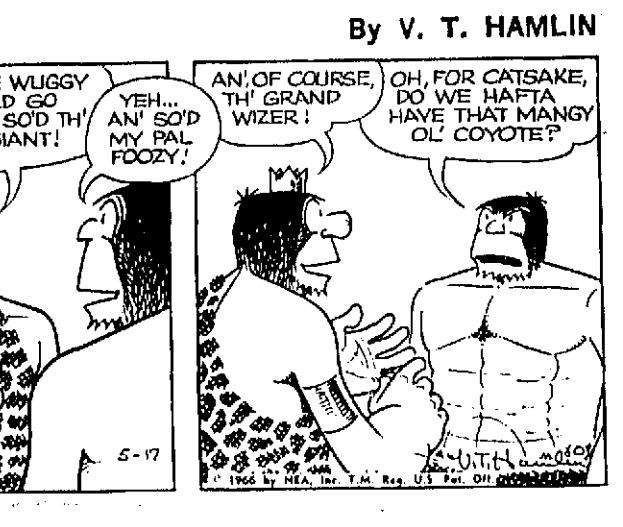

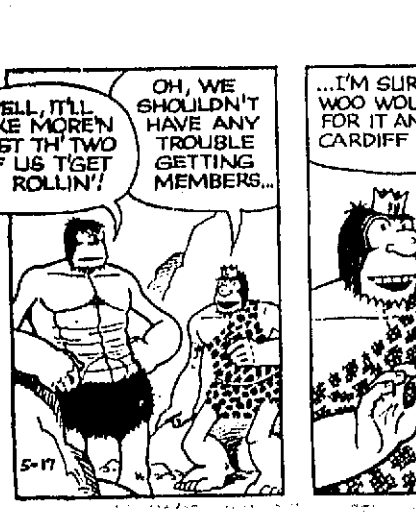

Today's hand came from a New York reader with the request that we settle an argument about the laws of contract.

He writes, "I guess I must have been too excited about my big hand. Anyway, I checked for aces and kings and got to seven no-trump in a lot less time than it takes to tell you about it. West opened the jack of clubs and I counted 13 tricks. Five spades, four hearts and two each in diamonds and clubs. So I spread my hand and claimed my grand slam."

"West looked my hand over carefully and announced that he held all five spades and the guarded queen of diamonds and I would be down one because I only had four spade tricks. I replied that I would lead out my ace of spades and would have a proven finesse after East showed out on the first spade lead. West contended that I could not finesse since the finesse was not proven at the time of the claim. The laws seem to bear him out but it seems very unfair to me that I am deprived of a grand slam on a technicality. What is your opinion?"

Our opinion is that the rule did work an injustice on South but laws are laws. So many arguments arise from premature claims that we strongly advise anyone to be absolutely sure of himself before making any claim at all.

It is even more unfortunate that South did not play the hand out. The laws prohibit any finesse after a claim but if South had played on, he could have made his contract without a finesse. South could take six tricks in hearts and clubs before going after spades and diamonds. That would bring West down to seven cards and he would have to unguard his queen of diamonds in order to hold on to all five spades. That would give South a third diamond trick and his grand slam.

Instead of bidding two spades, your partner bids two diamonds. What do you do now?

Primaries Indicate No Major Trend

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine states have now held primaries without any indication to date of major impact at the polls from two chief concerns among voters — the war in Viet Nam and the rising cost of living.

Historically, any widespread sense of discomfort or dissatisfaction has reacted against the ins, no matter of which party. Yet in the primaries thus far the voters have evidenced no disposition to turn out incumbent members of Congress who were challenged within their own parties.

Nevertheless, political strategists are holding to their estimates that what happens in the congressional elections next fall will be greatly influenced by the developments meantime in Viet Nam and on the price front.

In the normal course, the minority party picks up seats in the House of Representatives in an off year election, particularly when it has lost heavily in the presidential year as the Republicans did in 1964.

Thus, the GOP will have to gain a substantial number of House seats in order to claim a success in this year's campaigning.

Picking any number as the break even point between success and failure could bring arguments on both sides.

But Chairman John M. Bailey told the Democratic National Committee earlier this year that historically the party in power loses 37 seats in the House in an off year election. He reminded that the Democrats lost 77 seats in 1940, two years after a landslide victory by Franklin D. Roosevelt in the presidential election.

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen has been talking of a possible GOP pick-up of 50 seats.

Holding 140 seats now, the Republicans would have to gain 78 in order to take control of the 435-member House.

Of the nine states which have held primaries, six have elections this year for the Senate but in only two were incumbent senators opposed in the primary. Democratic Sens. John J. Sparkman of Alabama and Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma breezed to renomination in primaries.

Democratic Sens. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico and Jennings Randolph of West Virginia had no party opposition. Neither did Republican Sens. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska and John G. Tower of Texas.

Republicans will pick an opponent to Sparkman at a state party convention July 29. Republicans Don Kinkaid and Pat Patterson are in a runoff primary, to be held May 24, for the nomination against Harris.

Anderson is opposed by Anderson Carter and Randolph by Francis J. Love, who was a member of Congress 20 years ago.

Democratic Gov. Frank B. Morrison is running against Curtis in Nebraska.

Selby edged Detroit defenseman Bert Marshall to capture the Calder Memorial Trophy. He also will get $1,000 from the league.

In the voting by sports writers and broadcasters in the league's six cities, announced Monday, Selby collected 98 points. Marshall was second with 90 points, and Gilles Marotte, Boston defenseman, was third with 68.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Clean Pool Water Removes Danger of Infections

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

(Last of two related columns)

Outdoor swimming, whether in a pool, lake, river or ocean is attracting ever-increasing crowds. This very fact increases the danger of infections unless precautions are taken to keep the water clean. In pools, public or private, this requires filtering and chlorinating the water and cleaning the bottom.

The pool filter should be checked at least once a week to make sure it is working and the chlorine content should be tested daily.

Many owners of home swimming pools prefer iodine or bromochlorodimethyl hydantoin to chlorine as a disinfectant, because they are less irritating to the mucous membranes.

The eyes, ears, throat, nose and nasal sinuses are the parts most likely to become infected. The sources of the infection may be rain that has fallen through air that is not as clean as it looks, drainage from the soil and germs from the bathers themselves. Fortunately, this pollution is subjected to extensive dilution, the germ-killing rays of the sun and the disinfecting action of the oxygen in the air.

If so-called swimmer's ear—an inflammation of the outer ear canal due to bacteria or fungi—catches up with you, gentle flushing of the canal with a solution of acetic acid and alcohol is often all that is needed to clear it up. A person with a perforated eardrum should not risk such an infection by swimming without waterproof earplugs.

Q—I am a housewife. My eyes burn and water and the doctor has not been able to help me. What do you advise?

A—In many cases such eye discomfort is caused by rubbing salt from the fingers or eyebrows into the eyes or by a hypersensitivity to the soap or cosmetics used. Another frequent cause is a high level of air pollution but this would also cause you to have a chronic, hacking cough. If

Q—My eyes feel fine all day but at night they feel like they're full of sand. There's no matter coming from them. What could cause this and what should I do?

A—You have conjunctivitis. Try applying cold, wet compresses for 10 minutes two or three times in the evening. For possible causes and further treatment see the preceding question.

Politicians Looking for Vote Getters

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — At this point the politicians are rummaging in a bag of unfinished business for talking points in this year's congressional elections.

What they are talking about as issues now may look different by election time next November.

President Johnson is betting — or hoping — that the record of this Democratic-run Congress will be his party's chief inducement to the voters.

That's the big point he made in a speech Thursday night at a Democratic fund-raising dinner.

Naturally, the outnumbered Republicans are hoping for something a little more irritating to talk about. It's been clear for some time what they would fasten on, or like to.

Recently some top Republicans, like former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, figured their party can get yardage on two big issues: inflation and Viet Nam.

This is a guess since inflation, or the danger of it, may have retreated into the background by November and by then the war in Viet Nam may look less cloudy and frustrating, or the reverse.

Johnson, the master politician, knows as well as Nixon or anyone else that by November inflation and the Vietnamese war may plague the Democrats. He's not making them issues ahead of time.

Right now he chooses to talk about what he sees at the sunny side.

This Congress made a splendid record last year. But this year he has run into some difficulty there and the final record for 1966 is months away.

He predicted Thursday night that "the American people are not going to disown the most productive Congress ever assembled." He said: "Together we have passed more laws for the good of more men, women and children than any one Congress since our nation was founded."

This put him and his Democrats of 1965-66 ahead of any Congress in the presidency of his hero, Franklin D. Roosevelt. This week GOP National Chairman Ray C. Bliss said his surveys showed inflation to be a "major domestic issue, far beyond other domestic issues in recent years."

And Nixon chimed in to say the war in Viet Nam is just as big an issue "because the Democrats have made it so."

Johnson knows as well as Nixon and anyone else that by November the war in Viet Nam may be a plague to the Democrats. But he's not magnifying it ahead of time.

Instead, he spoke of it in a general way, urging Democrats to tell voters that "America will persevere until peace comes to Viet Nam."

But when he added—"it is the stand the vast majority of Americans will respect"—he revealed why he hasn't given his critics added national attention by making a full-length reply to them.

He doesn't think his critics on Viet Nam make up a very large part of the population.

Henderson Has a New Worry Now

By KATHIE DIBELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Skitch Henderson, bearded bon vivant and band leader for a major television show, will be worrying about a different kind of tune-up May 30.

The mechanically-minded maestro will be watching the Indianapolis 500-mile race as a member of Ridger Ward's pit crew.

"I couldn't stand to sit in the grandstand," Henderson said. "I want to know what's going on."

Henderson admits, however, that he is primarily a water boy in the pit.

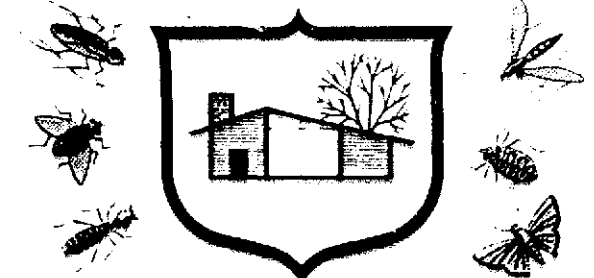

"Mostly I try to stay out of the way."

The musician's interest is genuine, however. He was an assistant driver on the Mercedes team on the Grand Prix circuit for several years and toured the major sports car tracks in the United States until eight years ago.

This will be the second year Henderson has watched the Indy 500 from a pit. In 1964, he helped Len Sutton and was horrified to watch Eddie Sachs and Dave MacDonald killed.

It was terrible, and it nearly eliminated me from racing," Henderson said. "When they lined the cars up to restart the race they looked like coffins—monsters getting ready to devour their drivers."
